

During your pregnancy, you may be required to have bloodwork and testing. Ultrasounds, Non-Stress Test, etc. Most insurance plans will cover the necessary testing you need to have done, but there are some plans that may not. It will be your responsibility to verify with your insurance company what company coverage your plans offer.

Example: Your plan may cover your ultrasound but will not cover the radiologist fee for reading and reporting the result.